— Raising Geometry 2014 —

Raising Geometry is the first collection of the Cascade studio.

Graphic in shape and structure, it consists of a series of fully functional mirrors that enhanced by electricity transform into contemporary light sculptures.

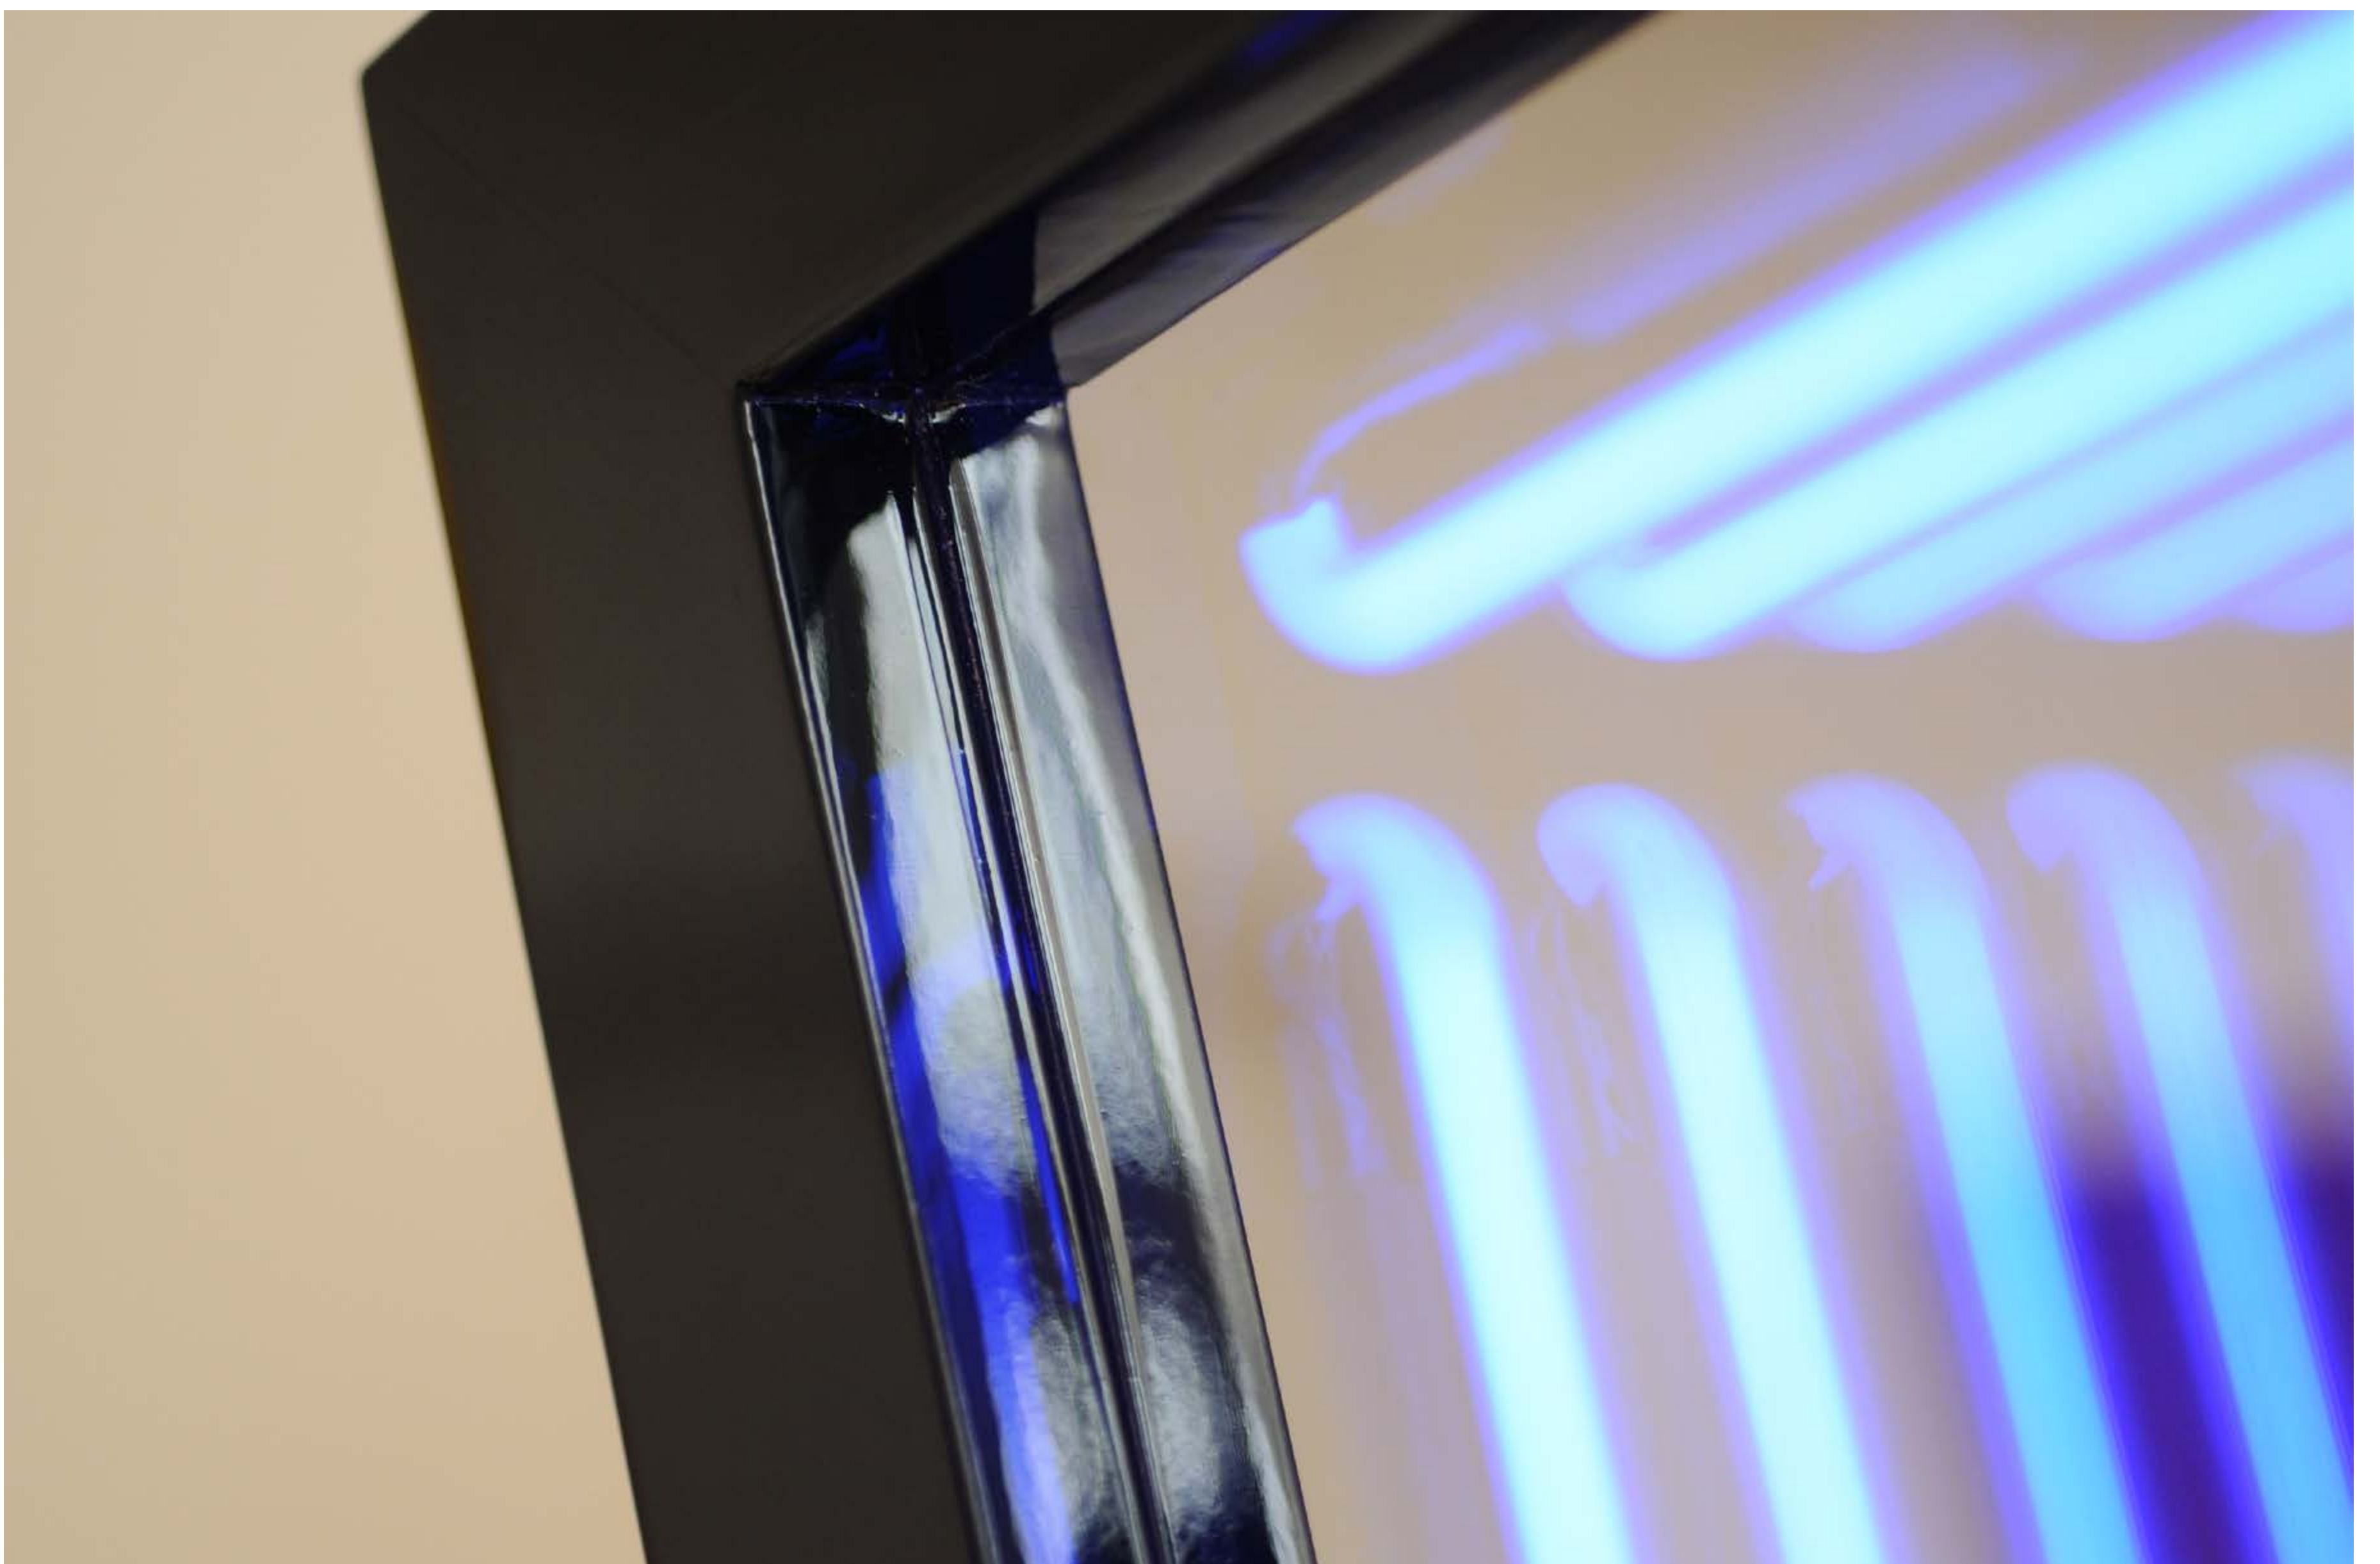

Merging natural wood, glass and light, the collection draws inspiration from the classic, mid-century modern design. The simplicity of the form fused with striking colour visually reference the retro style, while the geometric neon structures, repeating their reflection through a seemingly endless space, transform each piece into a three-dimensional light picture that baffles viewers' senses and perception.

Octagon

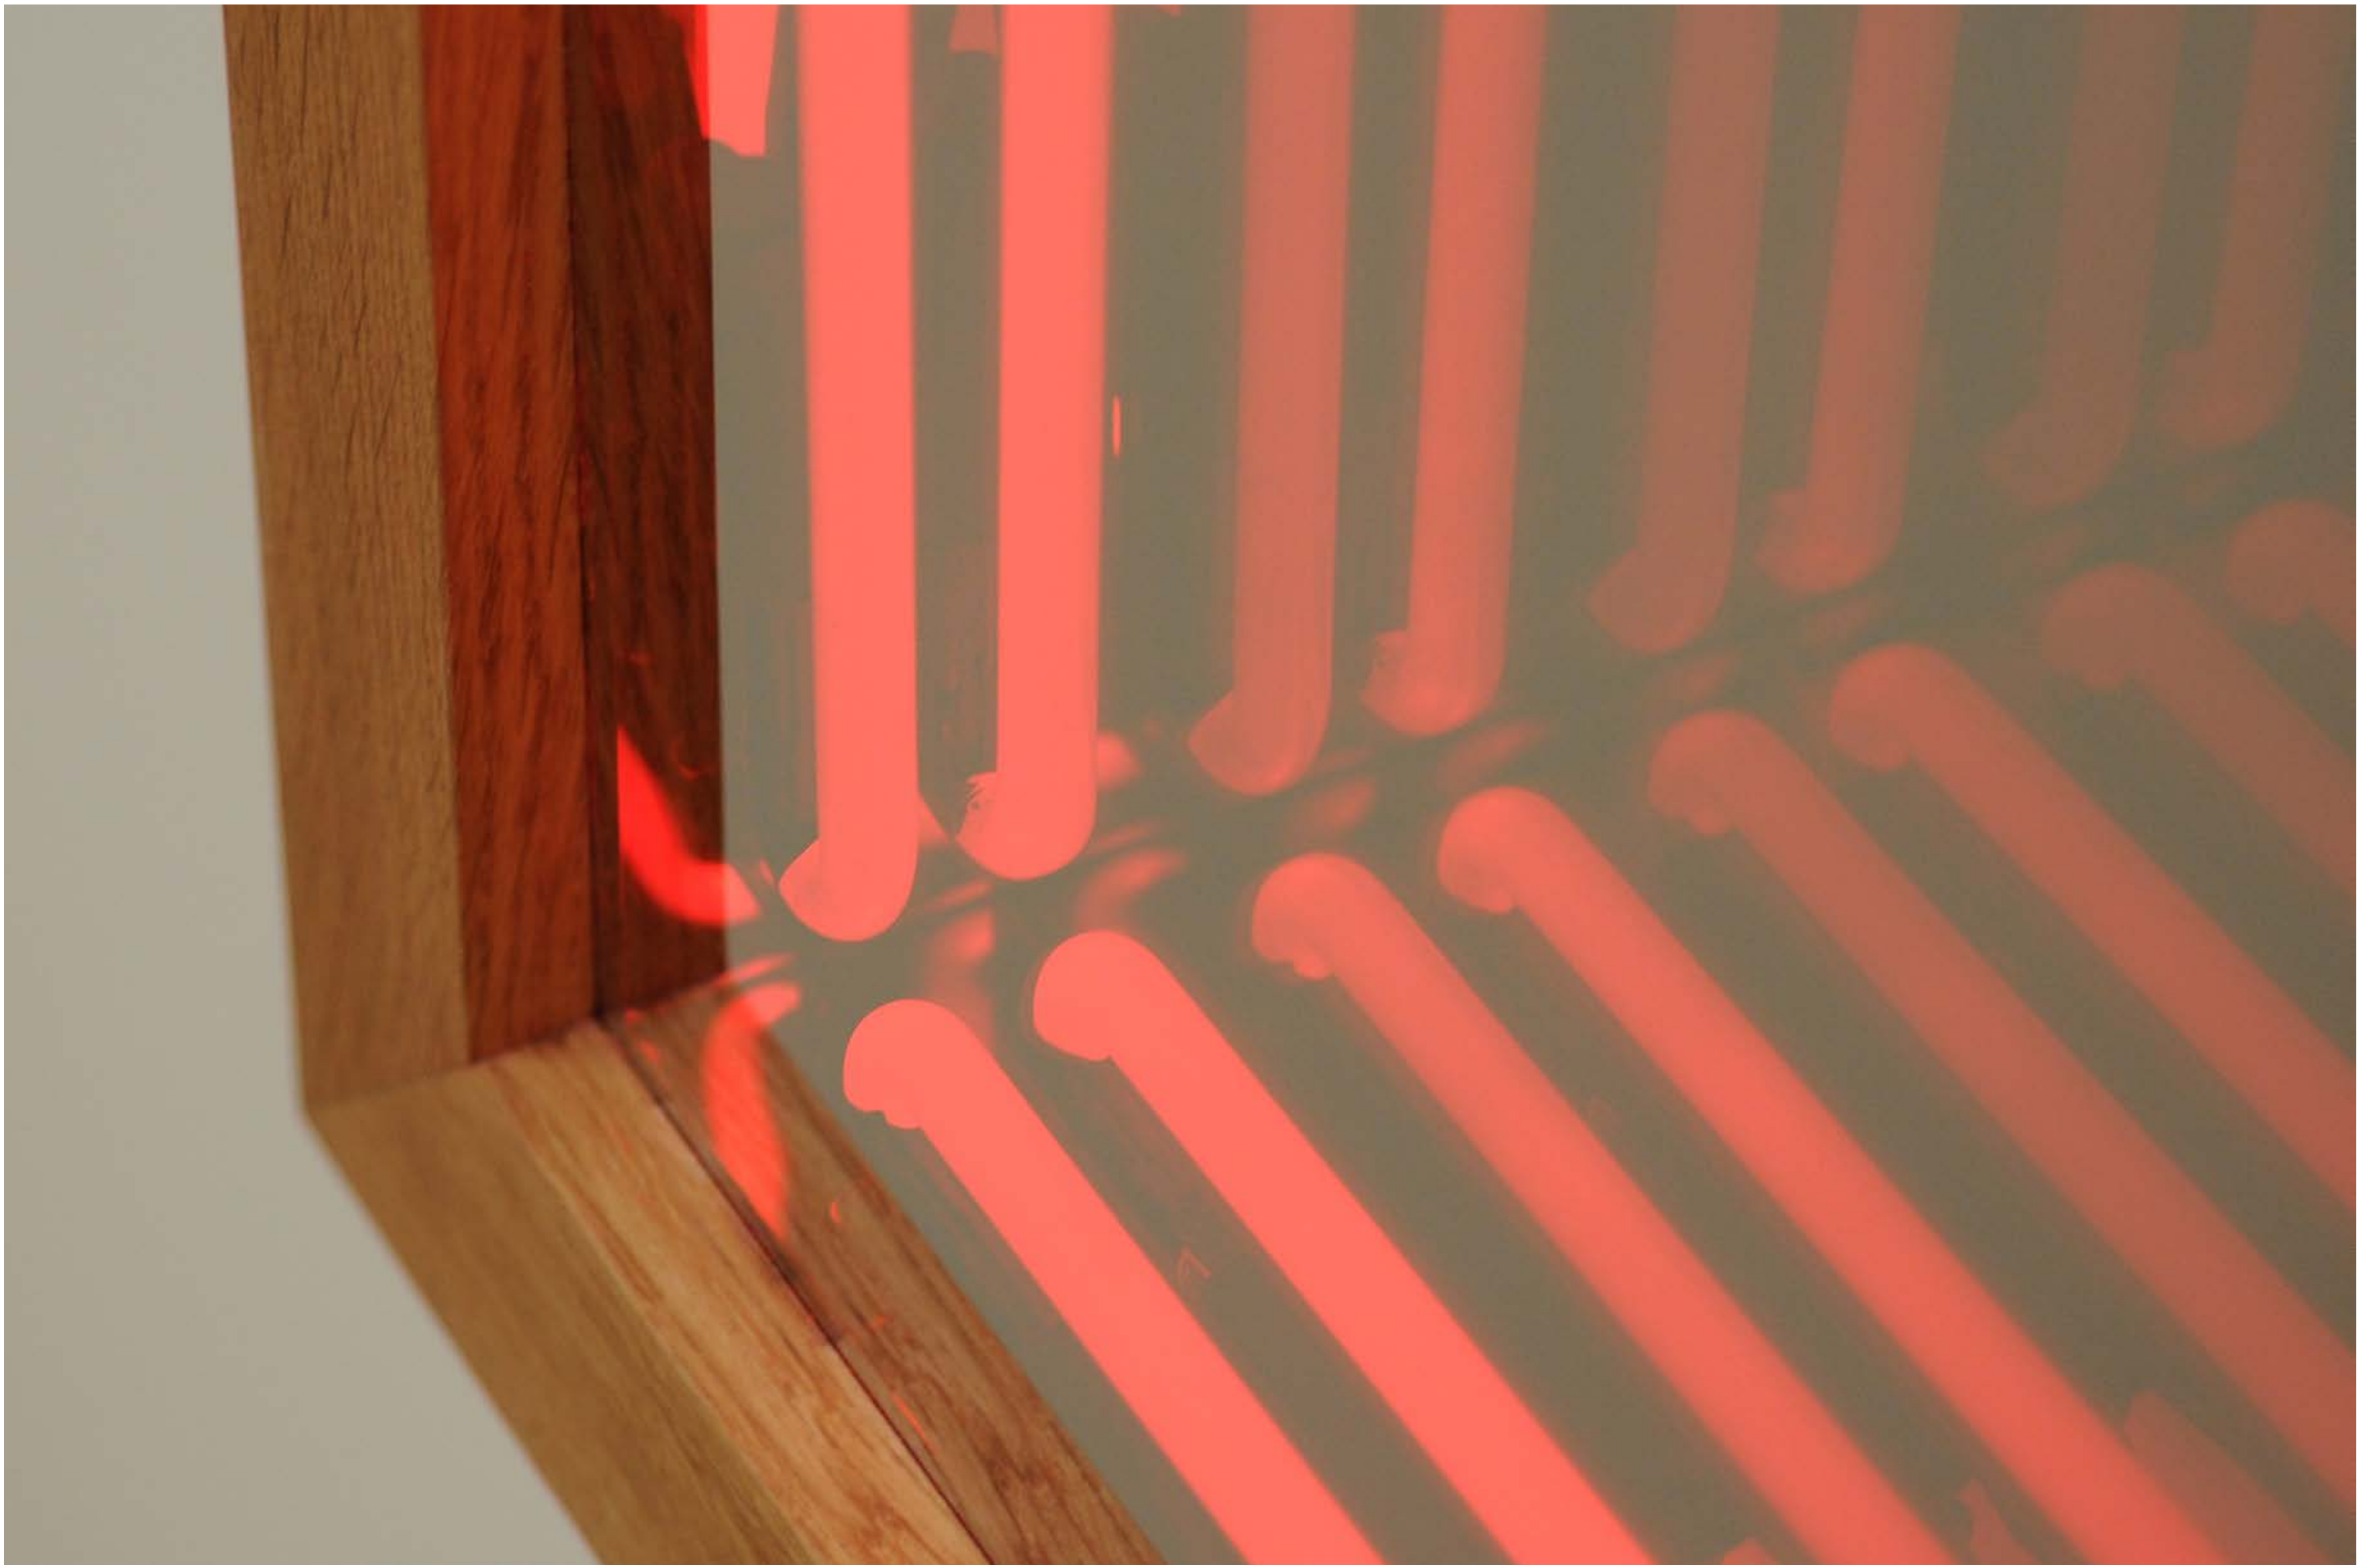

Alder wood, black lacquer, wood lamination, glass, neon
